“ In my eyes, Anne was always everyone's mom, even to her many puppies. I feel special to be the first to be cared by her (although that could be a scary thing when she got angry) But she always worried about me and I knew she had my back. I would go to her for so many things. She never sugarcoated it. You had to swallow it whole. I admired how direct she was. She could bite you with her tongue if she wanted to. But underneath that sarcasm and wit was a sensitive, loving and strong woman. She was intelligent and also artistic. Her strength was evident as she fought the battle with cancer. She may not have won the battle but she did win. She won my admiration of her courage. I am so proud of her and I miss her more and more everyday. My sister, my friend. I love you so much-

Worked with Anne at AT&T for many years. She was a great friend, smart, generous and had lots of initiative to get things done. Loved long talks with her about family, and life in general. She stayed with me in NJ after 911 when all the bridges in NY were closed. Although it was a terrible time for us all it is a fond memory for me. Even when she was strong willed she had a great compassion for others. She often made us laugh, though sometimes unintentionally. Her loss leaves a big void for those of us who loved her. My heartfelt sympathy to her boys, her husband & rest of her family.
