STATEN ISLAND, N.Y. -- Eileen Veronica San Severo, 70, of Tottenville, a retired hospital lab technician who was full of life and was a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, died Tuesday in Staten Island University Hospital, Ocean Breeze.

Born Eileen Veronica McBrearty in Manhattan, she was raised in Astoria, Queens, and Elm Park. After her marriage to Joseph San Savero in 1965, the couple lived in Westerleigh. They settled in Tottenville in 1968.

Mrs. San Savero worked for more than 15 years as a laboratory technician at the former Muhlenberg Hospital in Plainfield, N.J. She retired in 2009.

She graduated from the former St. Louis Academy in Pleasant Plains, and earned a bachelor's degree in medical technology from the College of Staten Island, Sunnyside.

She and her husband enjoyed travel and vacationing with their children every year. Most recently, they cruised with their children to Bermuda and had always hoped to visit Ireland.

She also enjoyed solving crossword puzzles, playing tennis, dancing, bowling, attending Broadway shows and visiting casinos playing slot machines. In addition, she enjoyed watching basketball, volunteered as a basketball coach and was a Kenny Rogers fan.

She is survived by her husband of 50 years, Joseph; her son, Joseph; her daughter, Donnamarie San Severo; her brothers, Vincent and Charles McBrearty; her sister Kathleen McBrearty and eight grandchildren.

Arrangements including cremation are being handled by the John Vincent Scalia Home for Funerals, Eltingville.
