“ Our grandfather was an amazing man who left an undeniable mark on our entire family. He was truly one of the kindest people we’ve ever known. He had a heart of gold, taking note of every interaction we’ve ever had, to the point that the following time we saw him he would have in hand the very thing we had mentioned the time before. He was extremely attentive and took notice of every little thing, every conversation, every milestone - he had zero problem going out of his way for the sake of his loved ones and for that we will be forever grateful. He was a great cook, and when we started taking interest in learning his recipes and how to make certain things, he had no problem teaching us step by step whatever we wanted to make. He even went to the extent of gifting us cooking equipment as well as a custom chefs hat. To know him was to love him and words truly cannot describe what a pleasure that was. Every moment spent together whether it was making plans or actually executing them, there was never a dull moment. Every party, every holiday, every piece of advice meant more than we can ever put into words. In every aspect of life, there will always be something that will remind us of him. Our grandfather was truly the best person anybody could’ve asked for and every single moment spent together will be cherished forever by anyone who’s ever known him.

Poppop, you meant the world to us. Thank you for everything you’ve done for us, you were truly special. Forever and always, we love you to the moon and back.

*Your granddaughters,
Chelsea and Justine*

“ I didn't know Francis very well until recently when he generously and enthusiastically offered to help with a genealogy project by sharing his DNA information. As my mother's (Janice's) first cousin, he is my first cousin once removed, and while I don't recall meeting him in person as a child, I've heard many wonderful stories of him through my mother. After connecting with him, I enjoyed dozens of email exchanges; Francis was funny, enthusiastic, and warm in our correspondence. When we identified his great-great-grandfather with near certainty, he was emotional and grateful. I'm so glad we got to work together in the last few years and solved the family mystery together. - Sharon Boeckle

“ Frank was a really great guy. Very thoughtful, loving caring and always willing to help family and friends throughout the years even when he was dealing with his own health issues which this time was terminal. Thank you for all the good times we shared. I miss you soooooooooo much.
