“ and just like that, he did it his way! Cliche as it may. Getting ready heading off to your tribute and I said to Mommy "lets take his vette". She replied, Staten Island roads he'd flip....lol. somehow I know she's right. Somehow I will always know what your approval would be.

You refused to be around and waste away. You instructed us with great detail in which we should behave. Mommy, the house and yes, even the car. You made it clear we were loved and you had no regrets. Above all you were one half of the creators of your very own "Dream Team".

I am sure the King of our family has had a hearty breakfast and is now thinking hmmm what's for lunch.

I will never feel you are gone. You have always be larger than life in a very understated way. You didn't have to step on others for your happiness. That is just one of the gifts you have taught us.

Dad (Big George)....til we meet again, Sonny aka Little George

“ My Dad gave his opinion. My Dad gave his requests. But more than any of that, My Dad gave all of his love! He taught us how to be us. When it came to his family we were always first. Selfish never! He believed Live, Love and Dance. Everything else was for other people to worried about. Never thought he was better than anyone, but knew nobody was better than him. You will never be forgotten. You have truly changed this world forever. I love you Dad, George Jr
