“ There is no way I can add up all the time I spent at 212 Lafayette Street. I was there for years of movie nights, take-out dinners, and often Jim's less-than-perfect percolator Bustelo coffee which required drastic amounts of milk and sugar. He taught me about waiting tables, oddball cinema, the "downtown" scene, and the less-than-rocking music by the Roches, McGarrigles, and Joni Mitchell. He was a friend and mentor to whom I am indebted. Jim, I'm sorry I never completed my task of finally organizing your VHS and cassette tapes.

“ Jim was one of the funniest and smartest people I have ever known. I worked with Jim for over a decade at Diane’s Uptown and continued to meet up with him years after whenever I was downtown or he ventured uptown (I think this happened only once!) to walk and talk about nothing and everything. I loved hearing about what he was reading - and on special occasions what he was writing - and we both loved Faulkner and crossword puzzles. We had a terrible musical trio called MCM along with Diane M and were always planning for our first gig. We simply enjoyed each other’s company. Jimmy spoke of his siblings so often that I felt as if I personally knew them all. And of course Matty, Timmy, and Paloma.

Jimmy K was a kind beautiful soul who will continue to put a smile on my face every time I think of him.
