“ Richie died at the age of 73. That is a young age. You may ask yourself "Why?! Why did he leave us so young?!" Well, that's the point. He didn't need a long period of time on this earth. In only those 73 years, he made a powerful impact on this earth. People need many years on this earth to finally understand the true meaning of life. When he finally figured it out, the Lord decided that he was no longer needed here. He had helped his friends and family greatly by teaching them true life morals. On March 21, 2016, Richie passed away. However, his legacy lives forever. His morals, his lessons, and our memories of him live forever. He taught his children and grandchildren to simply "live for it;" live in the moment and think positive in every situation. Though it is hard to say goodbye, we must resist mourning and must conform to celebration. He taught all those who he surrounded himself with, whether it was for seconds or years, to simply have fun in life.
